

Introduction to Business

Weekly Report 1

8/20-8/26

This past week, learning how to create a personalized mission statement will help keep me focused on my goals in ISM. Also, learning about what databases and sources are the most accurate and informative when finding information about my topic, was very helpful because my goal for this week was to find a way to become well versed in my topic before beginning to analyze possible options for my final product.

This past week my class time was spent well by working hard and doing what was necessary to in order to stay on top of my work and also get a little ahead. I made sure to look over all the information I was given, in class and not at home, so that I could ask my teacher questions and get answers without any delay, which allowed me to make progress with my work quickly.

In this next week I want to utilize my class time as much as possible by making sure I do not get distracted by side conversations and instead maintain my focus on my topic. I also intend to find an article that I can review and analyze in a way that will provide me new information about my topic. I can complete this goal by using the new resources that were introduced to me in class and utilize all the new search methods that I learned.
